COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The much job on Main Street has brought forth questions as to what happened and what can be done. Three factors entered into this situation: (1) Rain the day following the work which loosened the tar from the sand to some extent; (2) an extra heavy truck was laid so that the street level would be raised in order for our humpers to clear the curb; (3) continual stopping and starting of vehicles.

A representative from the firm from whom the material was purchased was in town this week to determine what could be done. He made a suggestion which will be tried. If by chance it should fail, the material will not be lost, as it can be scraped off and used for patching pot holes.

The other much work has proven out very well. For example, Mason Street, Broad Street, and the Northwest Bethel Road.

This week the third tax anticipation loan in the amount of $25,000.00 was made at the Casco Bank. The total of these loans is now $75,000.00, and are payable on Dec. 31st of this year.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

Glowing down at a COTOP sign is not enough. The law requires that a driver approaching a COTOP sign must bring his car to a complete stop. This means that the car wheels must stop moving. The State Police warn us that failure to come to a full stop is such a situation is a violation of the law and it is also a mighty dangerous habit which can trouble us in serious highway trouble.

Sunday River Skiway Slopes Marked

As the sale of stock in the Sunday River Skiway Corporation progresses, it is of interest to note that the groundwork of the skiway project is also under way. The last two Saturdays trails have been laid out on the side of Barker Mountain and an open slope marked.

Corporation officials worked with Sel Hannah of Franconia, N. H., an expert in ski area development, in the initial lay-out task.

Work reported to date includes marking 3,000 and 4,500 foot trails, and a 3,500 open slope. Included also is a 1,500 foot novice trail laid out that it will appeal only to novices and segregate them from the more advanced skiers.

Mr. Hannah says he continues to be impressed by the topography of the mountain and has never seen a mountain that presents so few problems. He left here to lay out a ski area in New York State.

The borders of the trails are marked with spotted paint lines and the work of brushing out has been started by Murray Thurston and Dr. John Trivard.

Sale of stock will continue after July 15. This date was set to allow time for contracts and orders for equipment to be used next winter season, and it is hoped that all financing will be near completion by that time.

Start Early, Take Time, Arrive Safely

"An early start is a safe start," our Maine Highway Safety Committee points out.

The Committee encouraged drivers to plan highway trips carefully, making certain to allow plenty of time.

"A driver who gets a late start on his trip is likely to find himself trying to make up time on the road," added the safety group.

"This is a mighty dangerous procedure and frequently causes serious highway crashes."

The safety committee emphasized that a driver in a hurry is a definite hazard to everyone on the road—including himself. Being a "little" behind schedule, he is inclined to travel a bit too fast, follow too closely behind the car ahead, pass improperly, and commit other violations associated with driving "in-a-hurry."

"Plan that trip so that you have plenty of time," continued the committee, "and then start a few minutes early. That way, you can take it easy all along the way, and the feeling of urgency which tempts you to take chances will not be present. You can drive at a safe, comfortable, relaxed speed—and have plenty of time to get to your destination. Incidentally, you'll have a much better chance of arriving at that destination."

"Yes," the safety committee concluded, "careful planning will help you to really enjoy your trip, to arrive safely—to 'SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!'"

"TV Fights TB" Fund Drive Starts

"TV Fights TB," a drive to provide television sets for the patients of Western Maine Sanatorium opened Wednesday afternoon on the Downeast Outlines WGSN-TV, Channel 6, according to Mrs. Agnes Gibbs, general chairman of the campaign.

"New drugs and remarkable advances in medicine make treating tuberculosis easier but it is still a disease that can put a person to bed for months or years," Mrs. Gibbs said. "The staff of the sanatorium and the Tuberculosis and Health Associations of Southwestern Maine have long felt the need for more TV sets for the hospital. We hope to provide these sets through the 'TV Fights TB' drive."

County Chairmen for the following areas are: Carl E. Richards, M. D., York; Edward Robinson, Androscoggin; and Mrs. H. J. Buncke, Oxford.

Contributions to "TV Fights TB" may be mailed to the Cacco Bank, Box 678, Portland.

TIME TO KILL YELLOW ROCKET WEED That pesky weed, yellow rocket, is ready for the kill now in Maine. It will crowd out clover and grass in hay fields and reduce the palatability of hay if it's not controlled. Paul Mosher, Extension Service crops specialist, suggests hand pulling where there are a few rocket plants, or spraying with 2-4-D where it's thick. However, 2-4-D will damage clover, too.

ACROSS the DESK

From the Seville Chronicle, Seville, Ohio: Memories of World War II are already growing dim for many of us. Unknown already by an entire generation are the sacrifices made by the civilian populace to win it. Forgotten is the fact that for a time it seemed we might not win it.

You see, it was the first time since the Revolution that the mighty United States was forced to complete mobilization. An entire generation of men was called to uniform. For the first time in history, women were asked to join the armed forces. Gasoline, vital foods, even personal freedoms, were rationed. . . and even then it almost wasn't enough.

Now that was that war! Well, for five years 161 Americans a day were killed or injured. 1,078,674 men had their lives ended or drastically changed.

It took almost mobilization to end that war. What about our "peace"? In 1932, the last year for which figures have been released, there were still 105 Americans being killed or maimed every day—by automobiles!

And there is no all-out mobilization against this enemy. Officers are even discouraged from enforcing existing laws against a menace that ranks with a major war in destructive power.

Weapons such as radar or also-tronic timers, which might trap a potential killer, may not be used against a law-breaker unless he or she is given 3029 feet of warning to conceal the evidence of his wrong-doing. Police cars must be plainly marked, so reckless drivers will suffer less danger of arrest. This same type of reasoning would have sent pointed routes of our convoys to submarine commanders during a war.

It boils down to this. No one really wants traffic law enforcement. They want straighter, wider highways, faster cars, but no one wants safe traffic.

If we did, we would mobilize and get it, as we did when last our Nation's safety was threatened.

From the Independent, Faquay Springs, N. C.: It seems that the English, too have trouble with English. This is most gratifying to Americans, who tend to be confused about who and whom, and who go all to pieces when it comes to a choice between was and were.

The House of Lords debated, the other day, whether a certain bill should be described as "an hotel proprietor's bill" or as "a hotel proprietor's bill." After discussion marked by considerable asperity and not a little quoting of sources, the Lords cravenly decided to call the measure "the hotel proprietor's bill."

The Maine Highway Safety Commission points out that vacation cars are usually filled with luggage and a lot of vacation equipment. They caution us to make certain that such equipment is stored carefully in such a way that it will not interfere with the driver's vision, front, rear, and side.

They also remind us that articles should be so stored that they do not prevent a hazard, should a quick stop be necessary. Take some extra time and do a good job packing. It could keep you out of serious trouble.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

CHURNING

A little farmer hoeing his patch of Green Mountains or old-fashioned Golden Bantam ponders the many problems of a developing atomic age and wonders what triggered the contemporary witch's broom. He does not feel that he knows all the answers, but he feels that if all 10 year-old boys had to turn the crank of an old-fashioned cedar churn, it would teach future citizens needed lessons of patience and determination.

The July 18th "New England Farmer" put it well. "Churning is a laborious work even with the best churns, and under the most favorable circumstances; and occasionally when the butter is long in coming, it becomes a discouraging and vexatious labor and one that severely taxes the patience."

On a pleasant Saturday morning when a fellow ought to be out in the field doing a man's work, or preferably fishing in the meadow brook to bring home a mess of trout for the family, it was his job to churn. Speed had little to do with the coming of the butter.

Neither was peculiar about the temperature of the cream, but often that seemed to have no connection with the conclusion of the job.

Round and round one turned the crank, and the wooden paddles made the heavy cream go ker-slosh, ker-slosh. It was a loose, slapping noise, and was definite proof that the cream was still cream. One turned and turned and listened as patiently as possible for the change in music; for it was not until the fat globules began to coagulate, that the tune began for which a boy listened. When it seemed that cream was being deliberately coagulated, the welcome changes in tone occurred. No longer was it a loose slapping; the globules began to clink together. In a few minutes, the butter "came" and Mother took over to wash, salt, and press it in the four-holed clover design mold.

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, July 10
Read Proverbs 30:24-25
or Psalm 19

There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wise: the ants, the locusts, the spiders, the locusts, the spiders. (Proverbs 30:24-25.)

God's wisdom is often conveyed to us in simple ways. "The ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in the summer." Here God points to the necessity of provision. Surely He has supplied our needs, but also in His grace He has given to us the blessed opportunity to work.

"The cranes are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houses in the reeds." Another portion of Scripture speaks of the wisdom of the man who built his house upon a rock. Let us build our lives upon the rock of salvation—Jesus Christ.

Let us have a sense of community. The isolated Christian life is poverty-stricken indeed. Only by sharing and mingling and serving with those around us do we grow.

"The spider taketh hold with her hands, and is in king's palaces." Life has no limitations in Jesus Christ. Through Him we can do all things.

PRAYER: Lord help us this day to hear Thy voice in the wonder and beauty of Thy world. Open our eyes to consider the beauty of Thy handiwork, our minds to the spiritual meaning to be discovered in the wisdom of Thy creatures. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Thought For The Day
I will consider the beauty of God's handiwork and the wisdom of His creatures.

Safety Rules For
"No Man's Land"

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

ACCORDING TO STUDIES by a Los Angeles taxicab company, about 20 percent of all collisions occur at intersections - that "No Man's Land" where anything can happen, and often does.

These statistics indicate that many drivers don't identify crossings as major traffic danger zones.

Think for a moment how many times each day you drive through intersections, and you'll realize how important the following tips are for your safety, and the safety of other motorists:

1. As you approach an intersection, reduce your speed, have your foot ready for braking, and be alert.

2. Remember, a green light is not an automatic signal to "go." Curb that desire for a quick getaway and make sure the intersection is clear before proceeding.

3. Don't attempt to beat a changing signal by speeding into an intersection. This is the most dangerous time to cross.

4. Never pass other cars when approaching an intersection or when driving through one.

5. Be particularly careful when driving on one-way streets. On approaching intersections, drivers often change lanes suddenly to be in the proper position for a left or right hand turn.

Signal lights and stop signs are not barriers - they are traffic controls installed for your convenience and safety. They must be obeyed fully in order to be effective.

Vacation time is in full swing in Maine. The State Police urge vacationing motorists to make certain that they take along with them a liberal supply of caution. We all know that many a vacation has been cut short - that many a vacation driver tried to save a few seconds by taking a chance on the road. Don't try to hurry on the road. Don't gamble your own life, the lives of those with you, and the lives of others on the road. Obey the laws of the road, drive with extra care because of the unusual amount of traffic, and concentrate on getting there safely, not on trying to establish a speed record.

$7100 FOR EVERY FAMILY BY 1975 IS CED'S PREDICTION OF U.S. GROWTH

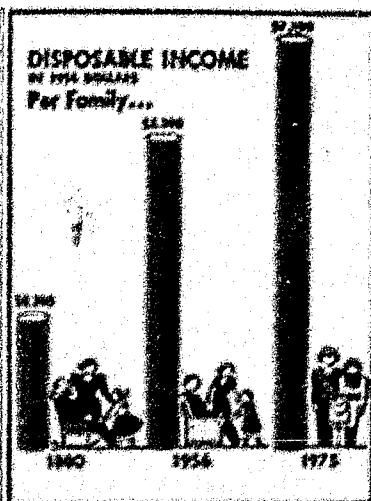

High Incomes Can Be Achieved Only by Wise Handling of Major Economic Issues, Committee Warns

WASHINGTON—By 1975, the average income of American families, after payment of all taxes, should be at least $7,100, as compared with a present average disposable income of $5,300 per family, the Committee for Economic Development predicted.

"Achievement of this high average income is not an imagined utopia, it is a practical goal for practical men," CED's Research and Policy Committee declared in releasing the results of a study by a subcommittee of businessmen and economists headed by Harry Scherman, chairman of the board of the Rockefeller-Moore Club, Inc., of New York.

Entitled "Economic Growth in the United States—Its Past and Future," the statement called for "vigilant vigilance" by individuals and government to assure that the most is made of the nation's growth-producing potential. It stressed improvement of public education, continued investment in enterprise, increased private savings, mobility of both labor and capital, efficient management of business and of government, and rising foreign trade as among the essentials for growth.

"Only if we manage our economic affairs with intelligence can we expect such a 'good life' on the material side, shared among the entire population," the statement asserted. Our growth will depend mainly, it stressed, "on millions of daily private decisions."

"The initiative and wisdom shown in the conduct of every business enterprise, large or small, and in the actions of every individual in pursuit of his welfare, will add up to the grand result and be the principal determinant of the outcome," the report declared.

Pointing out that future economic growth also will be affected to a very large extent by the policies and activities of government, the Committee declared "we must be more concerned than ever about two controlling matters: first, the need of attracting competent individuals into government service; and second, to broaden and clarify public understanding of governmental matters."

Continued growth is the more important today, the statement said, because of competition by the Communist bloc.

CED is composed of 150 business executives and scholars who conduct research and develop recommendations for promoting national economic development. Its Research and Policy Committee is headed by Frazier B. Wilde, president of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn.

MAN'S RECIPE SISTER MILDRED'S SPANISH CREAM

I am a very fortunate man. I have a capable, tolerant and understanding wife, who lets me putter in the kitchen. However, I want you to know that I clean up after working on one of my original recipes.

I also have three splendid sisters—no brothers. My sisters are excellent citizens, able, articulate and occasionally a bit opinionated. They still think the world's best joke is that Hayden took up cooking as a hobby. And sometimes I discover that the neighbor girls do not take me as seriously as I feel they should. I notice, however, they are perfectly willing to help eat good originals that I concoct.

Today's recipe is one of the best pudding formulas in Country Farmer Cookbook, and I give due credit to Sister Mildred for it. This Spanish Cream with a wedge of Mildred's prune cake is a top-flight dessert.

Use two teaspoons gelatin, soaked in one fourth cup of milk, one and a half cups milk scalded, two egg yolks beaten, one half cup sugar minus two teaspoons, one half teaspoon vanilla, slice of salt and two egg whites.

Cream the sugar, beaten egg yolks and salt in a double boiler. Beat the milk and pour slowly into the sugar mixture. Cook until mixture coats spoon—just slightly thick. Stir constantly.

Now add the gelatin which has been soaked in milk and stir until dissolved. Remove from stove and add vanilla. Pour mixture over and stir into the two egg whites which have been stiffly beaten. Blend all well. Pour into individual molds and chill. Make this in the morning if you wish it for supper. It is mighty good and has just the right degree of sweetness to suit me. I am not a sweet eater, just particular.

—Hayden Pearson

Sometimes means vacation time for most people. For many of them, this means a trip in the family car. The State Police urge vacationing drivers to remember that the one who assumes the responsibility for handling the car must be at his best, physically and mentally. Above all, he MUST NOT be under the influence of intoxicating liquor. If you plan to drink, make certain beforehand that a non-drinker will be behind the wheel. Don't take that chance—STAY SOBER AND SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

STAY ALERT FOR OTHERS' ERRORS WHILE ON THE ROAD

"Practically everyone can recall at least one occasion when he almost became involved in a motor vehicle accident through his own fault, but was saved from trouble because another driver was very conscious and alert," the Maine Highway Safety Committee observes.

The committee pointed out that such experiences prove that accidents can be prevented by defensive driving.

"Everyone makes a mistake, now and then," they continued. "True, the really good driver's mistakes are few and far between. Nevertheless, even he commits a driving error on occasion."

"Each of us can help prevent these errors from causing accidents by being watchful and courteous behind the wheel," emphasized the safety group. "If we are on the alert for mistakes which may be committed by fellow motorists, often we can compensate for those mistakes and avoid disastrous crashes."

"Alertness and courtesy behind the wheel are continuous," added the committee. "A driver who has been spared an accident because of the defensive driving of another is inclined to be more considerate of other motorists. This sets up a chain reaction of highway courtesy which can be a mighty important factor in cutting the accident toll."

Make it a big state. Many residents plan to drive to other sections of their home state for their annual summer vacation. The Maine Highway Safety Committee offers this bit of advice: If you plan to drive to a section of Maine with which you are familiar, make it a point to learn all you can about that section before you start. Mountainous, marshy, metropolitan areas have each presents different driving problems. Above all, remember that no matter where you go, it is always wise to SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!
